

Where Woman Reigns Society and Clubs

In order to prevent impositions and embarrassments, the Tribune requests that persons leaving social notes, and especially marriage notices, engagements, for publication, leave with them names through which the source of the same may be traced if the matter is called in question.

The bride of spring has had her day and now one looks forward to the June wedding. At no time of the year is the season more beautiful than the early days of June in the valley of the Great Salt Lake, and for seasons past the girls who so thoroughly enjoy a wedding with all the most beautiful surroundings, have selected this month, owing to the many attractions it holds forth in opportunities for effective decorations and costumes. June, therefore, will see the usual quota of elaborate weddings, and society is looking forward to a most interesting early summer season.

It has been a noticeable fact in reading of the important spring weddings in the east that yellow has been the favorite color for bridal attendants this spring, and the familiar white and green decorations have given place to those of daffodils and narcissus or lilies-of-the-valley. Azaleas in the most delicate pink and white are also very popular for decorating chandeliers and home interiors.

Appropos of the wedding, cards have been received from New York showing the latest style in wedding invitations. It is extremely verbose, and each phrase is as explicit as correct English can make it. Here is the copy, with fictitious names inserted. The blank space marked "name of guest" is to be written in ink, with the name of the one or ones invited.

The style of engraved script does not differ much from that in vogue for many seasons past. In fact, there is very little difference from that used for the last quarter of a century, but quite different from the style of eighty years ago, when Henry Clay sent engraved invitations to his "at homes" in Washington.

And speaking of clubs, what a new spirit of successful management seems to be hovering over the Country Club this season, early as it is for prognostications. Everyone is delighted with the way the new directors are taking hold.

Saturday afternoon witnessed the smartest gathering of the year on the porch of the pretty club, while the tennis courts and golf course were centers of attraction during the entire afternoon. The weather was ideal and some very stunning gowns were worn by the leaders of the fashionable set.

Several motor trips are planned for Sunday, providing the weather continues to be on its good behavior.

Several engagements are announced this morning, which would indicate a number of interesting weddings of the future.

EVENTS OF THE WEEK.

Mrs. W. H. Dale and Mrs. S. C. Snyder were hostesses at one of the most attractive social events of the Easter season, when they entertained a large number of their friends at a meal in the apartment of Mrs. Dale in the Miller. During the afternoon some of Salt Lake's most prominent musicians took part. After the programme dainty refreshments were served. The house was decorated with white carnations. The hostesses were assisted in entertaining by Mrs. W. Macintyre, Mrs. George Savage, Mrs. W. H. Browning and Mrs. A. Dugan.

Mrs. A. J. Hosmer presided over the second of a series of beautifully arranged bridge teas Tuesday afternoon at her new home in Thirteenth East street, where thirteen tables of bridge were played. Daffodils and other spring flowers graced the tables. Mrs. Hosmer was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Frank B. Stephens and Mrs. C. Vadner.

Mrs. Walter Scott entertained a dozen friends at a box party at the Mission Monday afternoon.

Miss Mayme Noble was the hostess at a beautiful spring luncheon Tuesday at her home in East South Temple street. The affair was given in compliment to the Misses Sheridan of Joseph, Mo., who are the guests of Mrs. Roy T. Byrne. A low mound of yellow daffodils graced the center of the table, where cards were laid out.

Mrs. David R. Gray delightfully entertained on Thursday.

Mrs. Sam S. Porter was hostess at a charming afternoon event on Friday.

A notable event of the week was the celebration of the fifty-seventh wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Midgley. Few celebrations this anniversary are recorded, and an estimable couple were the recipients of friendly congratulations from a large number of descendants and friends.

The Misses Mattie McGarry, Ellen and Lillian Foulger entertained for their young friends at a party Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. McGarry. The parlors were decorated in red and green with vases of red carnations, and the dining-room was decorated with pink and white carnations. Games and music were features of the evening. During the evening, punch and refreshments were served. The hostesses were assisted in entertaining by Mrs. McGarry, Mrs. Foulger and Mrs. Baldwin.

Mrs. J. R. Whitehill entertained pleasantly Thursday afternoon with tables of bridge at her apartments in the Calhoun. The affair was given in honor of Mrs. Frederick L. Wickes, who, with her husband, has lately come here to reside, where they will be home at the Bransford. Daffodils
